

The Max Planck Institute for the Study of Religious and Ethnic Diversity (Department for Socio-Cultural Diversities) is seeking to appoint

1. up to four researchers (wissenschaftliche Mitarbeiter/innen) at the doctoral and postdoctoral level

Applicants should have a degree in anthropology, sociology, political science, or geography. Their research experience and publications should be relevant to the research areas of the department.

The successful applicants will contribute to the department's research relating to

- social interactions in contexts of diversity,
- organisations, institutions and diversity (including e.g. cities or NGOs),
- superdiversity and its consequences.

Initial contracts will be for two years and are renewable. Salary will be based on the German public service scale TVöD, level E 13 (50% for PhDs). The envisaged starting date is 1 June 2013. The deadline for electronic (one file please) or postal applications is 6 February 2013.

2. two one-year postdoctoral researchers

Scholars whose research relates to the substantive concerns of the department's research programme and whose PhDs have been submitted by 1 June 2013 are eligible to apply. The fellowship is intended to provide the basis for developing a new research project or writing the PhD thesis into publications. The fellowship holders are expected to take part in the academic life of the institute.

Fellowships will begin on 1 September or 1 October 2013.

The deadline for electronic (one file please) or postal applications is 1 June 2013.

The Max Planck Society wishes to increase the participation of women wherever they are underrepresented; therefore, applications from women are particularly welcome. Following its commitment to an equal opportunities employment policy, the Max Planck Society also especially encourages handicapped persons to submit their applications.
